

Judith A. Robertson, B.S. served on the development team for the child and parent versions of the CHIP, refining the instruments, developing scoring algorithms, coauthoring the instruction manual, and conducting extensive analyses. She also has coauthored several research papers based on data from the CHIP family of instruments, including the adolescent edition. She continues to provide technical assistance to users.